Apologies for the Dust

As many of you may have noticed today, the Forums were not functional for a large part of the day. My sincere apologies for that. In my attempt to great all the components of the site ready for "Prime-Time" I inadvertently broke something.

The issue has been corrected and the Forums are not back, and this time hopefully to stay. I'll be adding some new categories as we go along. Please feel free to give suggestions in the "Suggestions" forum.

My first priority is to make sure to add all the needed features, then to get some articles started. And finally to spruce things up and add some more pizzas!

Thanks for understanding, and I'm happy to have everyone on board for the process.
