The Manor was owned by a family by the last name of Estes. They opened the house to be a Tuborculousis clinic. There was mainly kids but there were a few adults as well. There is a claim that an old woman would always sit in the front room in a wheelchair. Since modern day furnaces weren't invented back then they relied on wood burners. She ended up freezing to death in the manor because the winter was so harsh and the wood burner couldn't keep up with the cold. I have not posted pics because I just started posting on the site. I will jump over to that section right now!
