It's just ridiculous the epidemic that is running through Twitter right now! What a juvenile use of what could be an extraordinary talent. And for what? Sorry you all are having to go through this as well....

I must say "I feel your pain". Although I've learned to filter out much of the noise on twitter. Which is why I tell everyone to please send E-Mail to

This e-mail address is being protected from spambots. You need JavaScript enabled to view it or contact me on Ghosts & Haunts, or with a mention on twitter. I ignore all private messages on twitter since 99.8% of them are tempts to steal your password.

Also unfortunately the generaly non-directed traffic seems to be over run with folks who's accounts have gotten hacked and are being used to send advertisements.

But, there is also a extremely active crowd of paranormal folks on there. Great friends! If not for all our twitter followers we would not be where we are today.
