What do you think?
Posted by shell369 - 26 Nov 2012 01:59

---

Do you think most spirits are afraid of us? The one that I see is always in the darkest part of a room at a distance. Never close enough for me to get a really good look at and I am sure it would be gone before I got close enough.

==========

Re: What do you think?
Posted by shell369 - 27 Nov 2012 12:02

---

It never even crossed my mind about the possible link between light bulbs burning out and the presence of ghosts. That's interesting!

==========

Re: What do you think?
Posted by shell369 - 27 Nov 2012 12:09

---

What has crossed my mind though is the thought that maybe I am spooking myself! Maybe it is my own eyes and mind playing tricks on me.

==========

Re: What do you think?
Posted by normanglasser1 - 27 Nov 2012 13:35

---

A normal reaction , when we see something that defies logic we tend to try to dismiss it and Que whether we seen it or not .

==========

Re: What do you think?
Posted by kctkd - 27 Nov 2012 13:49

---

Not trying to close the door Norman. But as you know, a good invetigator has to explore all options. It is easier to prove or disprove the obvious first. That's all I am saying. Wiring is just the obvious first place to look. especially in a bathroom thar can get steam from a shower and a non moisture proof light fixture that can corode at the socket or connections. matrixing could also be a factor. not saying it is or isn't, just an educated opinion.

==========

Re: What do you think?
Posted by shell369 - 28 Nov 2012 01:58

---

I had another question. If there were ghosts here, could they be a danger to my son who has traumatic brain injury from a motorcycle accident?

==========

Re: What do you think?
Posted by mrs.reaper2278 - 29 Nov 2012 05:17

---

Not sure if anything is a danger to your son or not. if u dont feel threatened then chances are he wont either.

==========

Re: What do you think?
Posted by aryo-writer - 29 Nov 2012 19:01

---

shell369 wrote:

I had another question. If there were ghosts here, could they be a danger to my son who has traumatic brain injury from a motorcycle accident?

Depen the accident ur son have...

Example: like someone throw you from behind and then u fall.. U will injured and how bad ur injured? It's depend how high and how hard ur body hit the ground..

That's what can I said in my personal opinion....

==========

Re: What do you think?
Posted by shell369 - 30 Nov 2012 00:08

---

Thank you all for your replies

==========