Hello friends!

I thought it might be nice to have an option to post all sorts of topics, I mean that often one would want to talk about movies, politics, games, etc etc and is always good and fun to have a space in the forum to chat with other students of these issues. What do you think? Are we off topic? Thanks for everything.

a hug

I would not be opposed to having such an area in the forums. However, I would probably want to make it so that it does not send out the notices to our Twitter and Facebook pages. Since the topics would not be Paranormal related, it would not be fair to push that out to everyone.

I understand what you mention. In many forums I've seen similar options and people often use it to talk about any subject but ye understand not put that option. Thanks anyway. a hug

You can also just come into the chat room. We tend to talk about anything, not just spirits. Come join us, you may have fun.

I would love to see Grupo Alpha in the chat room. Although I do understand if the language barrier may be a bit of an issue in a real-time chat.

Well I'd love to participate more often in the chat room, what happens, as Crystal says, is that my English is not very fluid still talk online and I find it very difficult. One night I tried and the truth is I still lose a lot. But I am very grateful for the invitation Six. a hug
