hi...i am recieving help.well i think i am..from two paranormal men..they are now going through ASSOP...at first they thought this was an incubus..but i am not sure about that.now nor are they..now they want to do an over night vidual..watch we while i am asleep.but do not understand all this..because all that happens is while i am awake..now they think it may not be paranormal..but i know it is not in my head..i have been told by many there is nothing wrong with me there..but i know this energy is strong.it is sexual...but i don't feel it is an incubus..because i feel it would do more damage to me..and much more powerful...but i know this thing does not listen to me, or care how i feel...but i do not understand why my prayers, etc..do no good..why other spirit do not help..and why i dont get visions etc anymore.i am confused...i feel i have to see if these can help me..but if you still want to help if these cannot..then let me know..another thing is i cannot aford to pay...they want to do the over night thing august 30th....what do you think ?

Well, I always want to help. and there should not be a charge. The overnight thing is normal. but you should have someone else there on your behalf. to sit with them. just to sit with them while you are asleep. that can validate things. Most incubuses do roam while sleeping but, I have heard of awake cases. The prayers are working, I believe. just think how strong it may be if you were not praying. The person I have been talking to lives in your area. but even with the ones coming, it won't hurt to talk to the ones I have been. just send me your email address and your name through my email.

. I can forward it to them and they can contact you. It never hurts to have someone else on the side. You can get their input also. The more support you have the better. if you do decide to send me your information. put apirit attachment in the subject line. that way I won't delete it. I have a habit of deleting stuff from people I don't know. and about the other incubuses have different strenght levels also. They pull from their host. that makes their host drained and tired alot. it all depends on how much they pull at a time.. Keep in touch, let me know.

I was reading about your experiences and I hope you do not mind some more friendly advice.

I've seen some wonderful suggestions here already, but if all else fails, sounds to me like you might need an energy worker who is also a sensitive. When an entity has enough strength to manipulate the energy surrounding itself, and you, then you need someone who can basically do the same while being able to communicate as well.

I know for fact that using these means can greatly help with spirit transference. After this is complete, it would be a good idea to do a traditional house blessing and self clearing to help protect yourself from any re-attachment of others while you are still recovering spiritually from this one. I am an energy healer and sensitive, and I have conducted spirit transference many times using this process, so I speak from experience.

I'm not sure what resources you have around you, but you may need to look into finding an intuitive energy worker, reiki practitioner, etc., in order to come in and assess your situation. If you truly wish the attachment to be broken, it can be done as long as you find the right approach and are committed to the process. Don't lose hope.

Hope this helps you in some way.

I am looking forward to getting your information. When you send it I will forward it to the group I have been talking about. Hang in there. Help is on it's way. We have not been praying and typing our fingers off for nothing. Your nights are going to get better. We pray for this and all the other healing you need. In the name of our God, Amen.!
